Chantel Ng, GULL's first Ambassador for Malaysia, Tuesday 22 March, 2011

Chantel Ng is GULL's first Ambassador for Malaysia. She is Founder and President of the Chantel Academy, Vice Chair of the Johor Venture Association, a Malaysia national trainer and coach and a City & Guilds authorized instructor. Among other commitments, Chantel is a regular beauty therapy periodical columnist, lecturer, assessor and author of teaching and training materials.

Chantel comments:

“In the era of lifelong learning, what should we be striving to achieve for ourselves and for others? UNESCO suggests that learning to learn, to be human and to get on with others are vital skills. GULL's process of action learning encourages a process of learning that is holistic, enjoyable, integrative and relational. There is no better way to learn about ourselves and to discover how to make the best possible contribution to our wider sphere of influence at work and in the community.”

Visit to the Breakthrough Centre Village, Hong Kong

Friday 25 March, 2011

Founded in 1973, Breakthrough is a non-profit organization providing cultural and educational services for young people. Anchored in the Christian faith, Breakthrough cares for the holistic development of youngsters and helps them to achieve their potential. Breakthrough believe that the key issue is whether and how young people are affirmed, encouraged and stimulated in order to release creativity and potential.

(Above) Breakthrough work with many thousands of youngsters every year by offering short courses that encourage holistic development.

Breakthrough's work encompasses the Media, Interpersonal skills development, Liberal Studies, Research and Development (focusing on youth culture and contemporary issues) and a wide array of training and development short courses. All these activities can be interlinked with GULL's professional Bachelor pathway via GULL's outcomes mapping approach. The purpose is to link training inputs and practice with outcomes (evidence of learning and application), recognition and professional certification.

Value Hospitality Group Corporate Business School (CBS) and GULL Graduation event, Saturday 26 March, 2011

Value Hospitality currently manages 7 hotels and resorts in Malaysia and several years ago the company established the foundations of its own corporate business school (CBS) by embracing action learning and the GULL system.

Value's first graduation event held at the Park City Everly Hotel Bintulu on 26 March 2011 recognized the attainments of the inaugural group of managers and staff.

(Above) Graduates celebrate the award of GULL's professional Bachelor and Master degree qualifications.

Rationale for the Value Hospitality Group CBS:

At Value Hospitality, we believe in multitasking and a multi-skilled workforce ... we also seek to ensure that staff prioritize and schedule their work, plan for peak periods and re-allocate resources according to operational needs. Teamwork and all these approaches increase productivity, create a better working environment and generate better customer response times ... We continually invest in the training and development of our people, as they are the driving force behind any hotel operations.
